SUIT TO TEST CITY CHARTER AMENDMENTS

Joint Sewer District Provision in Violation of Constitution, It Is Claimed.

Christian H. Prior brought suit in the Circuit Court yesterday to restrain the construction of the Arsenal Street Joint Sewer, alleging that the city Charter amendment, providing for the establishment of joint sewer districts, is invalid, being in violation of the Constitution of the United States and that of the State of Missouri. It is proposed to build the sewer from Ninth and Arsenal streets to Illinois avenue, distance of two miles. Prior owns two lots in the district, one on Oregon street and the other on Wyoming street. The lots it is alleged are one-half a mile from the sewer, and will not be drained or benefited by it. Under the joint sewer district pro-vision all property within a given district is to be taxed for the construction of the Oklahoma City, Ok., May 6.-It is now known that six lives were lost in the cloudburst at Foss, on the Choctaw and Oklahoma Railroad. Fifteen houses were carried away and a Choctaw passenger train had a thrilling race to escape the flood that followed.

The dead are Mrs. Butterfield and a granddaughter, Mrs. Hutchinson, Mrs. Morgan and her son and a man, name unknown. Foss was a town of 800 people. I' was built mostly on high ground, but extended into the valley. The cloudburst struck Turkey creek above Foss, raising that stream and the Wasaita River to a depth of nearly 10 feet.

The flood reached Foss at 5.20 o'clock. The flood reached Foss at 5.20 o'clock. built mostly on high ground, but extended

The flood reached Foss at 6:20 o'clock, coming with such suddenness that the people in the valley could not reach high fround.

From Elk City to Foss the Choctaw Railway follows Turkey Creek for a distance of saxeen miles. Below Foss the creek crosses under the Choctaw tracks and emptles into the Washita, which the Choctaw crosses further east. The train crew saw the wall of water descending the creek and began a race for the bridge across the Washita. The train barely got into Foss on time, leaving there just ten minutes before the bridge over Turkey Creek was swept away. A few minutes later the bridge over the Washita went out.

The train finally arrived at Weatherford after encountering numerous bad places in the track, and was compelled to remain there because of washouts ahead. Relief has been sent to Foss from Oklahoma City and other points.

The water swept through the Washita Valley for miles, carrying on its crest the wreckage of houses, barns, fences and tons of logs and drift.

course of study, and as a result they are more interested in the work.

Recently blanks were sent out to every public school teacher and principal, and these they were expected to fill with suggestions regarding changes in the different courses of study. Their suggestions were submitted to a committee appointed from teachers in the various studies, and the suggestions of this committee, after being passed upon by a Grade Committee, were submitted to Mr. Soldan.

The course of study, with few exceptions, has not been revised since 1856, and some important changes are anticipated. Expectally in the "nature study" course several suggestions have been made. Mr. Soldan said: "The main importance of mature study in the primary grades is to engender interest and love of nature. It should be the sympathetic study of nature. Self-activity should be stimulated, the pupil should talk about what he has seen or read concerning nature, and learn to handle, draw and express in language his thoughts on the subject."

Averill, director general of the Charleston Exposition, who is in St. Louis for the purpose of bringing the attention of business men of this city in the convention, states that when he started from Charleston Saturday fifty answers had been received and the average number of delegates promised in each is five.

Since coming here, Colonel Averill has received several telegrams that acceptances are coming in every day and from indications he estimates that not less than 460 celegates will attend.

The object of this convention, Colonel Averill states, is to start a systematic effort to simplify and shorten the process of commercial dealing with the West Indian Islands, and to develor a closer trade relation between the South and Southwest, "The best way to start such a movement," he said, "is to get the business men from the sections interested together, Capable representatives will be at the convention from Cuba and Porto Rico to tell what the Islands need in the way of imports and what they produce for export. Post Office Inspector Dice states that he can bring forward about 100 women who are anxious to convict Henry Flachskamm of No. 4 Nicholson place on a charge of using the mails to defraud. His case will be tried in the United States District Court this morning before Judge Adams.
Flach-kamm a year ago was indicted by the Federal Grand Jury and tried before the district court. The jury could not agree and he was released on bond. Recently he was arrested in East St. Louis on a charge of using the mails to defraud, but has not been indicted as yet on that charge.

It is alleged that Flachskamm sent out sets of "beauty pins," and the recipient was told that when these were sold a fur collarette, a pockethook and a half dozen handkerchiefs would be given to her. SUIT TO PREVENT EXPOSITION SALE

Application for Injunction Will Be Made to Circuit Judge Zachritz To-Day.

An injunction suit to restrain the sale of the Exposition at the Courthouse to-day under a bond foreclosure, was filed in the Circuit Court yesterday by William J. Atkinson, president of the St. Louis Exposi-tion and Music Hall Association, the Woodward & Tiernan Printing Company and the Great Western Printing Company

E. O. Stanard, trustee for the bondholders, and the Exposition Company are de-fendants. The suit was referred to Judge Wood, who, being a bondholder, declined to act. It was arranged that the matter be presented to Judge Zachritz at 9 a. m. to day.

The basis of the injunction is the allegation that the ordinance providing that the site be used for a public library building is void, in that it conflicts with a City Charsite be used for a public horary building is void, in that it conflicts with a City Charter provision that the question of selling or leasing a public park must be ratified by a majority of the voters of the city at an election. The ordinance of April II last, it is stated, repealed the ordinance under which the Exposition was established and restored the site to use as a public park.

The resolution of the Board of Directors of the Exposition, providing for the issue of $150.09 worth of bonds, and the ordinance under which the bonds were issued, are pleaded. The ordinance provides, it is stated, that at the request of more than one-fourth of the bondholders tha trustee may proceed to sell. It is claimed that the occasion for the sale does not exist.

It is stated that Atkinson owns 20 shares of stock, and that there are 1.650 stock-bolders. The Woodward & Tiernan and Great Western companies, it is stated, are creditors of the Exposition Company. It is averred that the interests of the stockholders and creditors would suffer, as the property, worth $1,000.000, would be sold for a nominal sum.

ADOLPH KALTER ACQUITTED. Judge Ryan Sustained Demurrer to State's Case.

Judge Ryan yesterday ordered the acquittal of Adolph Kalter, a grain dealer, who was charged with grand larceny. The who was charged with grand larceny. The charge was that Kalter had extracted a lot of grain from a car he was handling for a farmer in the interior of the State. When the weight lists were compared it was said the car was "short" to the extent of more than $30 worth of grain.

Judge Ryan sustained a demurrer to the State's case without hearing any evidence from the defense. He ruled that the car was in the possession of Mr. Kalter and if it had burned up he would have been responsible for it. Therefore, Mr. Kalter, the court ruled, could not have stolen from the car.

HANGED HIMSELF IN CELLAR.

Henry Middendorf Despondent Because of Wife's Absence.

Henry Middendorf, a waiter who lived at No. 507 South Broadway, committed suicide resterday morning by hanging himself with peace of clothes line to a rafter in the basement of the house where he was a boarder. A letter from his wife indicated that he was despondent because she refused to return to him and patch up their differences.

Richard Herold, a boarder, discovered the body about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He notified Henry Walder, also a boarder, who cut the body down and notified the police. It was then conveyed to the morgue. Middendorf and his wife separated about two weeks ago and she went to live at No. 1234 North Twentieth street. In Middendorf's pocket was found the following letter, written in German:

Mr. H. Middendorf-I bear that you are looking for me; why, I do not know. We had agreed that you should go mine. I will remain here far the time being, and will work from the 15th of this month. You wanted it that way, I will hear my lot and feel contented so far. You need not bother your head about me, and I will keep away from the walters as much as possible. I deem it unnecessary to meet you at any place, for needle would this I was running after you. em it unnscessary to meet you at any place r people would think I was running after you. MARY.
